

YANK

THE ARMY

WEEKLY

MARCH 2, 1945: p. 17

The Census Bureau has revealed that the stork has been much busier in this war than in World War I. For every soldier and sailor killed in this war, six war babies have been born, in addition to the number that would normally have been expected in prewar birth. Furloughs and allotments are given as reasons for the healthy birth rate.

(image added)