

THE COLLEGE OF SIN

Are our colleges producing well educated students or drunken bums, dope addicts, homosexuals and vice girls? Read the sad facts and statistic's that are changing the color of our college institutions from ivy green to cheek red . . .

Illicit sex, dope addiction, alcoholims, violence and crime are on the increase on campuses across the nation! The 2,000,000 students, most of them between the ages of 17 and 23, who crowd into our institutions of higher learning are getting an extra-curricular education which would stand a Lucky Luciano or a Pat Ward in good stead.

ABC's Of Drinking

The high-spirited collegiate antics of yesteryear have been replaced by a grim determination to plumb the depths of co-education. The coke and juke box dates have been replaced by hard liquor and sordid hotel rooms. On-campus necking has given way to off-campus fornication. Hoodlumism and violence have taken the place of the bonfire rally. The bootleg antics of the 20s are kindergarten stuff compared to today's bar-nothing college capers.

The average kid that gets out of high school and goes to college is away from home for the first time. He is inexperienced and easily influenced. If he declines to drink with the rest of the crowd, he is laughed at. Pretty soon he is caught in a web of drinking parties. Then he finds himself taking morning drinks to tide him over classes and a bottle to relax him for examinations.

Fraternity houses are the scene of most college drinking parties. The young frosh, eager to join a fraternity and be one of the boys, closes his eyes and gulps booze with the rest. When these frat houses throw parties and ask the college girls, they too must drink to keep from being classified as wet blankets.

Recently a fraternity drinking bout at Knox College, Galesburg, Ill., ended tragically. Beta Theta Pi and Phi Delta Theta, 2 rival fraternities, had a beer-drinking contest. Forty quarts of beer were consumed! Two students died as a result of the contest!

In a southern college, a football rally ended tragically when 2 sophomores, well liquored up, forced a 17-year-old girl to drink from their bottle. The girl passed out after 3 or 4 gulps. The 2 boys then assaulted her. A campus police officer detected them too late to save the girl, but the boys were expelled from school. The school officials, anxious to protect the name of their institution, squelched legal action against the boys.

To the victor belong the spoils and in college parlance that means flying your colors (preferably milady's negligee) from the masthead of your fraternity house.

Gambling Grammar

There was a time when a college boy increased his vocabulary with Latin phrases from Virgil. Today, however, the campus kid broadens his speech horizons with phrases like, 'you're faded,' '7 come 11' and 'ante up.' The penny poker games college boys used to indulge in to relieve the burden of their studies are as obsolete as Jack Benny's Maxwell. Gambling is big stuff and the kid who wins a couple of hundred in a campus poker or crap game goes to a local gambling house to try to make a killing.

Often these kids get tangled up with local vice-lords through gambling. In the heat of the gaming table, they write out chits way over their heads and sooner or later these must be paid. Some college students have bled their parents dry with gambling. Others have been beaten up brutally by local hoods because of their inability to pay. Still others have paid off debts by acting as lookouts on robberies.

In the most highly respected university in the East, a student blew his brains out by attaching one end of a string to a shotgun trigger and the other to his toe. The reason? He had lost over $5,000 in campus crap games. In desperation, he had stolen money from gym lockers to meet his debts. He was apprehended and due to be expelled. He was too ashamed to face his family, a respected one which pre-dated the revolution, so he killed himself.

Sex Seminar

"There is more promiscuity and illicit sex on college campuses today than in any other walk of American life." The speaker is the dean of a large state university. He asked to remain anonymous because if his views became known, trustees would have him dismissed. There is an unofficial conspiracy among those in charge of our universities to keep the shocking facts about college sex from the American public.

The more shocking stories do manage to reach the newspapers, but they are usually buried in the back among the classified ads. Briefly one may read about the 18-year-old girl who killed herself because she contracted a venereal disease at a sorority party. Or, the freshman sorority girl that killed her illegitimate baby and hid the body in a laundry bag where it went undetected for 3 days. And, the 22-year-old college senior who is currently serving a term for statutory rape, although the 17-year-old girl he was caught with admittedly seduced him.

But, the daily, taken-for-granted, sex activities of

Homosexual Hi-Jinks

One of the touchy situations which you never hear about concerns the shocking amount of homosexual practices that take place at colleges. Most college administrations follow a 'hands off' policy towards these boys. They rarely cause trouble and usually are among the brightest students in the school. However, they do form close-knit cliques. When they spot a boy they think will fit in with their off-beat practices, they bring a great deal of pressure to bear to "bring him around." Many a young kid, away from home for the first time, has indulged in practices which he doesn't begin to comprehend. Thus, are the homosexuals of tomorrow formed.

One university, near Chicago, actually holds a convention for male homosexuals from all over the nation during Easter week. The campus cops know what is going on, but as long as the "girls" behave themselves and make no public displays, they wink an eye at the explosive set-up.

One arrest, authorities reason, would set off a scandal that would ruin the name of the school. This college has the largest number of enrolled pansies in the country. This, in spite of the fact that its admission requirements are tougher than 90 percent of the other colleges.

He-Gal Sororities

Far worse than the male homosexual situation, is the increasing Lesbianism among coeds. Often sororities are no more than fronts for Lesbian groups. These girls select their pledges very carefully to make sure they will conform to off-beat practices. Often, when a pledge realizes what she has become involved in, the results are disastrous. Every year more and more of these girls commit suicide. The suicides are invariably freshmen. Often, frustrated love affairs involving older girls, are the reasons for taking their own lives.

Lesbians can be much crueler than male homosexuals when it comes to securing their sex lives. They won't take no for an answer and a recalcitrant girl is quickly brought around by social pressure. A girl who refuses to conform finds her life made a Hell and is thoroughly ostracized within the sorority circle.

In a college in New York State, a girl was actually murdered because she threatened to expose Lesbian activities. Girls in her dormitory pushed her out of a 5th story window. She lived long enough to gasp out her story to college officials. These worthies not only squelched criminal action against the guilty girls, they did not even have the Lesbian coeds expelled!

As in other segments of society, free sex, drunkenness and gambling produce a large traffic in dope on college campuses. The freshman who samples a marijuana cigarette is a confirmed addict by the time he becomes a sophomore. As a junior, the little hypodermic blisters are easily detectable on his arm and by the time he is ready to graduate, he is a cringing, nerveless wreck, ready to steal for his daily dose.

It is not the purpose of this article to insinuate that all, or even a majority, of college students indulge in free sex, boozing and the use of narcotics. There are clean-cut, hard-working kids who come to colleges to learn. But, immorality is on the increase and it is a catching disease. The college age is the age at which a boy or girl can most easily be corrupted. College administrations should be stricter and more interested in curing the situation than hiding the result.

This picture represents the latest madness that has taken hold of all busty females that belong to sororities. The purpose of this insane exhibition is to prove to the parents at home that come hell or high heels their daughter has the stuff of the old pioneers, even if its squeezed right out of her for the glory of dear old Vassar.
